Strikers To Melt From Picket Lines

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If government intervention in the 87-day-old steel strike could get mills up to peak production as quickly as it can remove pickets from plant gates, customers would be much happier right now.

United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said his half million strikers will comply with the law of the land. That means pickets will melt away as quickly as a federal court injunction can be obtained.

Steel producers, however, guess it would take at least five weeks to get furnaces and rolling mills operating smoothly enough to approach 90 per cent of capacity production. They expect little steel to be made in the first two weeks.

Of course, any finished or semi-finished steel now in the mills can be pushed out quickly but that will only be a drop in the bucket.

Inside the mills there remains agonizing days of slow work to get iron-making blast furnaces and steel-producing open hearths heated and back into production.

Big Questions

Among the big questions confronting producers now: How much damage has occurred during the long shutdown? Can damage be patched up or will permanent repairs be needed immediately?

The first men to head back into the mills will be the maintenance workers.

The maintenance crews must search out damage in fuel lines, water pipes, electrical wiring and switches and make fast repairs.

Then will come the furnace crews—first the blast furnace men and then the open hearth workers.

The huge blast furnaces have been sealed since they were banked with smoldering coke hours—maybe days—before the strike started July 15.

If the refractory linings have not absorbed too much moisture or the roofs and floors have not cracked, charges of limestone, iron ore and coke will be pushed in. The first iron out will be worth little.

Producers estimate it will take six to 10 days to get good production of high-quality iron. That's if the furnaces are not too badly damaged.

Getting the open hearths back to work will be slow painstaking work. Many of the open hearths were kept warm for a time with gas heat. But as the strike wore on these were permitted to grow cold.

Funds Exhausted

HARRISBURG (AP) — Approximately 60,000 Pennsylvania steelworkers and their families have exhausted their funds and applied for public assistance payments. The Public Welfare Department estimated Friday.

Quick Glances At Steel Strike

By The Associated Press

Developments — President Eisenhower invoked Taft-Hartley Act Friday in 87-day-old steel strike, longest in industry history, paving the way for an 80-day court-order end of strike.

Tank Truck Crashes Into College Group

STROUDSBURG SIDEWALK DAYS . . . sunshine and fair weather helped to swell Stroudsburg's Main St. with crowds of people shopping and looking. The many tables of merchandise displayed in front of the stores, the store clerks in derbies and bonnets, the colorful banner and balloons, and the hurdy gurdy music echoing up and down the street, gave the whole affair a carnival-like touch.

Rain Delays Work On Some Piers As Longshoremen Go Into Action On Court Order

NEW YORK (AP) — Longshoremen hustled back onto piers from Maine to Texas Friday, their eight days of strike-enforced idleness ended by a Taft-Hartley mandate. Rain, however, washed out operations at some Atlantic ports.

More than 30 million dollars' worth of perishable cargo was the initial target for 85,000 returning dockers. Some of it was still on the spoilage point.

Short-Term Borrowing Sets Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's short-term borrowing costs soared Friday to an all-time high of 4.262 per cent. This is the interest rate the Treasury will pay on its latest $1,200,000,000 issue of bills, maturing in just three months from the college.

Last Monday, a similar issue of bills was auctioned off at prices which gave an average yield of 4.007 per cent.

The previous record high was 4.259 per cent in March 1933, when the banks were closed by government order.

Ironically, the interest the government pays on money borrowed for six months declined as the three-month rate shot upward.

Bids for a 400-million-dollar issue of 182-day bills averaged 4.666 per cent. This was down slightly from last week's 4.678 per cent.

Holiday

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists calculated Friday night their Lurk III will get another fairly close look at the moon in 1967.

With results of its first look still unannounced, the space vehicle is scheduled to head back to earth today.

Astronautic specialist Ari Sternfeld was quoted by the official Soviet news agency Tass as saying the flying laboratory should pass within 6,200 miles of the moon in early January 1967.

However, successful observations of the moon can be made much earlier from greater distances, Sternfeld said.

He specified the 9th, 16th, 23rd, 41st, 66th and 107th revolutions.

90 percent of the nation's steelmaking facilities.

Wages and Production Losses — Industry losses amount to $300 million dollars weekly; strikers losing 70 million dollars a week wages. Workers averaged $3.11 an hour before strike, according to government figures.

Issues — Union seeks 15-cent-an-hour annual wage plus fringe benefits. Industry says it has offered about half that: 15 cents an hour gains over next two weeks contingent on union giving industry more say over working conditions in mills.

Negotiation — No talks since Tuesday night, Oct. 6. No evidence either side has attempted to arrange further talks.

Steel supplies — Steel re-serves, built up during record six-month production record prior to strike, now dwindled to emergency level.

Resumption of Work — No sizable shipments of finished steel expected in less than two weeks after resumption of production. Three to five weeks needed to get production back to 90 percent of capacity.

Producer Reveals TV Rigging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who until last week produced the top-rated TV quiz show "Tic Tac Dough" told Friday of wholesale program rigging. He also said he had tried to persuade contestants to lie to a grand jury.

The testimony, by Howard D.

Felsher of New York, was given to a House Commerce subcommittee. It is holding hearings which have produced testimony that two other popular television quiz shows, "Twenty-One" and "Dotto," also were not on the level.

Felsher was fired last week by the National Broadcasting Co. after he had refused to make an affidavit that contestants on "Tic Tac Dough" had not been given questions and answers in advance.

He produced the show for its former owners, Jack Barry and Dan Enright of New York, and continued production after NBC bought it early in 1957.

Hope Abandoned

Felsher testified as the committee all but abandoned hope that Charles Van Doren, who won $129,000 on "Twenty-One" in 1956, would volunteer as a witness.

There was a chance that Van Doren, whose name has not been linked officially to program scandals, might be subpoenaed for a later hearing. He has not responded to committee invitations to testify. NBC, which hired Van Doren after his sensational "Twenty-One" showing, suspended him Wednesday from his $30,000-a-year job.

Felsher testified that he told "Tic Tac Dough" contestants before the show what categories of questions to choose and given them copies of questions and answers in those categories.

Felsher said he denied to a New York County grand jury in October, 1958, that he had rigged the program. The grand jury started its investigation after published charges of quiz show fixing. Felsher appeared before the grand jury again last April and presumably recanted his previous testimony.

He said he got in touch either personally or by telephone with 30 to 30 contestants who had been coached and advised them not to tell the truth to the grand jury.

Ships Stranded

Two hundred cargo ships stranded by the strike began moving again along both coasts — in Portland, Maine; Boston, New York, Baltimore, Hampton Roads, Va.; Jacksonville, Miami, Mobile, and New Orleans.

As longshoremen tackled the backlog of cargo, an embargo was lifted against rail freight shipments to the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Corn Crop Predicted By Agriculture Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — A record corn crop of nearly four and one-half billion bushels for this year's harvest was predicted Friday by the Agriculture Department.

The crop yield was estimated at 4,429,000,000 bushels, up one per cent from last month's estimate and 17 per cent more than last year.

But while corn soared to a probable top, wheat production fell nearly 24 per cent below last year. The Agriculture Crop Reporting Board put this year's wheat harvest at 1,117,000,000 bushels—about the same as was estimated for Sept. 1.

Farm Production

The crop reporting board said total crop production equal to the record of last year now seemed likely, barring bad weather which would damage crops or slow harvesting.

"Sure they're dangerous, but I don't think anybody has a right to tell me what kind of shoes I'm going to wear," one young lady commented during an unsupervised street poll.

"And what if it is dangerous? That's the risk the wearer has to take."

The three-man City Commission agreed Thursday to pass a law banning wearing of shoes with heels more than one inch high that are less than one inch in diameter. Violators could be fined $5.

Final action is expected at Tuesday's commission meeting.

No Intention

But, the commissioners hastened to add, they have no intention of any kind of rigid enforcement of the law.

The whole business started when the commissioners were told that another damage suit had been filed against the city by a woman who tripped and fell while wearing those toothpick heels. There have been about 50 such suits against the city during the past two years.

The commissioners, being males, reasoned that the law might slow up filing of those damage suits.

The steel companies say they have offered 15 cents an hour in gains over the next two years. The union says it wants that much on an annual basis.

Prestrike earnings of the steel workers averaged $3.11 an hour.

Call For Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Comptroller of the Currency Friday issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business Tuesday, Oct. 6.

Working days do not include those days lost through holidays or adverse weather conditions.

Macmillan To Search For Peace

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan declared in a victory statement Friday night that his government will use its new authority to search for peace and spread prosperity around the world.

With an election sweep that nearly doubled his majority in Parliament, the Conservative party leader went on TV and told the voters Britain has three main tasks ahead:

"Maintain the national prosperity and to spread its benefits still more widely throughout the country."

"Use our growing economic strength to increase our contribution to the lives of countries overseas, particularly within the Commonwealth."

The report said the agricultural production index for raicrops to play our full part in the constant search for peace."

He interpreted the election results, in which the Labor party was the main opposition, as showing that the class war is obsolete in Britain.

His party accused Labor of trying to rouse class antagonisms to win votes in the general election Thursday.

Macmillan's victory electrified the stock exchange and sent prices rocketing. Shares in steel companies, freed from the Labor party's threat of takeover in a nationalization move, led the parade.

The indicated final majority for the Conservatives is 100 seats. In the last Parliament the Tory working majority was 53. The speaker does not vote and is considered nonpartisan.

Returns from 627 of the 630 districts voting Thursday gave the Conservatives 364 seats, Labor 258, and the Liberals 5—gain of 23 seats for the Conservatives.

On the basis of past performance the Conservatives expected to hold one of the three outstanding seats.

SOLITARY SAILS

In the last glow of the sunset, this sailboat seems to be alone in the vastness of the sea. And yet it isn't. Were this boat suddenly to get into trouble, helping hands would swiftly come to the rescue.

So it is with life. At times you may feel very much alone—yet in reality you are not. For if you didn't have a single friend in the world, you would have the Church.

The Church welcomes everyone—and that's a pretty big thing when you stop to think about it. It means that always there is a door open to you. You have but to turn the knob.

Chart a new course for yourself. Start going to church. When you do, you'll find that your voyage through life has acquired fresh purpose.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Budget Dilemma

Pennsylvania's taxpayers—numbering in the millions—are watching intently as the battle over the state budget unfolds in Harrisburg.

Republicans, who control the Senate, voted to cut nearly 52 million dollars in the $1,867,000,000 appropriations approved by the Democratic House at the request of Democratic Gov. David Lawrence.

A stalemate developed when the House refused to concur, so a Senate-House conference committee was appointed.

The committee met this week in a bold attempt to resolve the differences—not to the satisfaction of everyone concerned, which is impossible, but in a way that would prevent suspension of essential state services.

Each side yielded slightly in the committee's initial session, and further progress was expected yesterday as the conferees met again to discuss appropriations not required by law. They hoped to report an agreement to their respective caucuses next Tuesday.

The proposed budget cuts will be felt on a wide front, considering that about 80 per cent of the state's income is channeled back to the counties, townships and cities as subsidies and grants-in-aid.

But, as viewed by the taxpayers, many of the funds appropriated are earmarked for desirable programs, yet ones that are not entirely essential. Unless they are slashed or eliminated, there will be a need for additional taxes to balance the budget.

We see no reason why the executive and legislative branches can't get together and solve the fiscal crisis. After all, they forgot party lines just recently and agreed on matters relating to their own interests.

Both the Senate and House passed the $1,365,000 appropriation bill for the executive department, giving the Governor exactly what he wanted.

Then he returned the favor. A week ago he signed into law a bill which added two million dollars to the expenses of the Legislature. In addition to pay raises, it created 40 new jobs.

If the same cooperation were shown in attacking the state's budget dilemma, we predict all the problems that now seem insurmountable would soon disappear.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Roadside Signs

When a newspaper comes out against "highway advertising" there is always a suspicion that the editor is being nudged by the advertising department. Commercial interests have just so much money to spend on advertising, and every dollar spent on roadside signs is just one less dollar available to other media—including the newspapers. Naturally newspapers are supposed to be against roadside advertising on principle.

Now, there is a good deal that can be said in favor of such advertising. A motorist traveling in an area unfamiliar to him welcomes information about where he can eat and where to sleep, about interesting scenic and historic spots along his route, and the places where he can expect to have his car serviced. As long as such useful information is presented tastefully there can be no legitimate objection.

But what people do object to, and rightly so is any constant parade of exhortations to "Smoke El Ropos" or "Drink Old Doc Kinsey." The approaches to many of our major cities (especially West Coast ones) are nothing more than signboard slums. The problem that faces responsible legislative bodies is where to draw the line; what is permissible and what is offensive? It is principle of law that you can't legislate taste. So when there is any question of preserving the beauty of our highways, the line should be drawn on the conservative side and the erection of signs rigidly controlled if not forbidden altogether.—Newton Square County Leader

Reports From Congress

Turn To Lobbying

By Congressional Quarterly
Washington—Lobbying prestige to the well-populated ranks of Washington lobbyists is a small band of men whose experience qualifies them highly for the complex art of influencing legislation. They are former Members of Congress who turned to lobbying for private organizations after retiring from the House or the Senate.

76 Registered—A check by Congressional Quarterly of the reports filed with Congress under the 1946 Federal Registration of Lobbying Act shows that 13 former Senators and 63 ex-Representatives registered as paid lobbyists from 1946 to the end of the 1959 session.

Not all these lawmakers-turned-lobbyists are still active, however. From the quarterly financial reports that are required by the lobby law, and from other sources, CQ was able to determine that at least three of the ex-Senators and 18 of the former Representatives were still on the legislative scene in 1959.

The actual number could be higher; the lobby law contains no effective enforcement provision and experience has shown that many of the registered lobbyists are late consistently with their reports.

Experience Helps—In the competition to influence votes, a former Senator or Representative goes into a lobby campaign considerably better equipped than his less-experienced brethren. The inner workings of Congress' complex legislative machinery hold no mystery for him.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Paradoxical Situation

Dear Editor:

All of us have become deeply concerned over the recent federal court decision banning daily Bible reading in our schools of Pennsylvania. Many of your readers have offered what seemed to them good solutions to the problem.

One of these was mentioned in a recent editorial of the Daily Record, in which is suggested that "the teacher may read up to 10 verses of Scripture." Notice, however, the danger of omitting the Bible reading would always be prevalent if it were made merely a matter of option.

When the three Federal judges were hearing the injunction suit of the Abington couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Schenck, they called in Dr. Luther A. Weigle, 78 year old dear emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, to testify as an expert with the approved consent of both sides.

Dr. Weigle testified to the great moral value of the Bible, and also stated, "It is the experience of people who discover the nature of God. It gave us the Ten Commandments."

In reference to the Lord's Prayer, he said, "It seems to me to be a seemly and proper practice." He compared it to the recitation of prayers at the opening of the sessions of legislative bodies. He further stated, "There is nothing sectarian there. Everything in the prayer has parallels in Jewish Scripture."

The principal of the Abington Senior High township school superintendent, and William W. Young, an English teacher connected with the Bible readings, said that, "the students designated to read the Bible passage were permitted to choose the text for each day and could use their own Bibles if they wished—Catholic, Protestant, or Jewish."

The Chicago Daily News summarized it in an editorial some time ago in these words, "The Bible was the chart and compass of the fathers of this Republic, and was the guiding star of the framers of our Constitution. It never entered their minds to prohibit the reading of the Bible in the schools.

"Yet the Supreme Court of Illinois, by a vote of five to two, has prohibited the reading of the Bible in the public schools of Illinois. How paradoxical is this prohibition and a provision of an Illinois prison law which stipulates that 'it shall be the duty of chaplains to perform religious services in the penitentiaries . . . and to furnish, at the expense of the State, a Bible to each convict!'

We need to have the Bible read in our schools, for the amount of religious education people receive today is but small. Let's furnish the schoolboy with a Bible rather than to wait until he reaches the penitentiary. Let us start at the foundation of a child. The Bible puts it this way, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."—Proverbs 22:6.

Nostalgia

I see by the newspapers that two of my old China editors recently died in London. The mention of the names, O. M. Green and H. G. Woodhead, aroused memories of a happy, exciting, fascinating world when China was trying hard to become a democratic republic and could not find a way to do it. It was good to live in Asia then.

O. M. Green was an Englishman as ever was and he edited the "North China Daily News" in Shanghai which was more British than Buckingham Palace. It was in format more austere than the London "Times" after which it was fashioned. Only one American had ever been associated with it, Rodney Gilbert, its Peking correspondent.

I had drifted from Tientsin into Shanghai where I found work on the "Gazette" which was really owned by Sun Yat-sen. This brought me into close contact with the Father of the Republic and I saw Dr. Sun every afternoon for a few years.

It was he who steered me into the Shanghai Students Union, telling the boys and girls that I had recently come from Asia and therefore knew how to make a revolution.

During the Students Strike of 1919, I was very active. This was a universal refusal to work, to sell, to transport anything but food supplies unless the government of China rejected the Versailles Treaty, as that document gave parts of China to Japan.

It was out of this movement that all the conflicting forces now struggling in the East of Asia blossomed. Within a year the Chinese Communist Party was organized.

Little of this news was being reported at the time in the foreign press, even in locally published newspapers. So one day, O. M. Green sent for me and asked me if I were willing to give him an occasional article on the mass movements in China. . . .

These Chinese Communists were Trotskyists and their contact in Russia was Karl Radek. I knew this movement when it was born and imagine the surprise when a decade later I heard it said in the United States that these were not Communists; they were agrarian reformers!

CUTIES

—By E. Simms Campbell

“NEVER pay any attention to whistles, dear. That's how I met your father.”

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

In the theatre—as elsewhere—success has more friends than people. "The pajama Game" was the first show produced by Hal Prince and Bobby Griffith. They had the hardest time attracting backers. As Mr. Griffith noted: "Suddenly I couldn't reach my friends on the phone. I never knew, until then, how many of my friends were having trouble meeting tax payments."

After the musical clicked the same friends never stopped calling the producers—pleading for choice tickets.

The foregoing is hardly an unusual experience. "Kiss Me, Kate" was compelled to give 80 auditions before it raised its production cost. And "Oklahoma!" was desperately trying to raise money when it opened out-of-town.

The origins of shows are often as whimsical as they are fascinating. Several years ago, producer Jay Julian attended the reading of a script. Following the audition he dispatched an acid-soaked message to the newcomer playwright: "I wouldn't want to produce your play," he wrote, "because I don't think it is a truthful play. I'll fight anybody connected with this play with words, sabers or fists provided my opponents number not less than one or no more than three at a time."

Inexplicably, the following week the producer purchased Michael Gazzo's "A Hatful of Rain."

The raw material of success in the theatre is generally hard work. For instance, the transplants of "Damn Yankees" from a book to a musical was a tough chore. Eight top-flight dramatists attempted the transition and failed. Finally, in desperation, George Abbott and the author turned out a script. Mr. Abbott, an authority on the subject, once observed: "If there is any form of writing that takes experience, it is stage writing. You've got to tell your story without description, without getting inside the characters, without jumping from place to place, from time to time and without psychological explanations. It's very hard."

The "China Year Book" for 1924 contains the first full account of the new relations between China and Soviet Russia and this edition also reports on the newly organized labor movement in China into which the Communists under the leadership of Li Lih-san were already infiltrating. In the 1926 edition appears the following:

"The Communist Party and the Chinese Youth are organizations which came into existence largely through young people of China being converted to Communism through the reading of Communist literature and through education in Communist schools in Irkutsk, Moscow, Leningrad and other Russian cities. These Chinese are more closely affiliated with the Third International than with the Soviet Government and their activities are not always identical with the activities of the Soviet representatives in China. . . ."

It was a wonderful opportunity for me to bring into this most important newspaper in the Far East, the views and activities of those elements among the Chinese who heretofore had had no avenue for communication with the foreigners in China.

White House advocates of a special session are citing this powerful Democratic opposition to question Secretary Anderson's view he can work out an acceptable agreement. They argue his chances are no better now than last summer.

Also they told it is politically more desirable to come to grips with the interest rate and farm issues this year than 1960—a presidential election year.

Tough Questions—Secretary Anderson is mulling over a series of thorny questions from Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), chairman of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee. The one-time Chicago University economics professor has asked the Treasury chief what he thinks about the need for legislation to establish stand-by controls on consumer credit, wages and prices, and on the stock and commodity markets. Anderson is against that, but before formally replying to Douglas, will lay questionnaire before the entire cabinet.

Male Students 'Erupt' At ESSTC

Group Tries To Raid Girls' Dorm

STUDENTS' natures, like leaves, seem to turn in the Fall, and the male students at East Stroudsburg State Teachers Thursday night were no exception.

At approximately 10:30 p.m. on Thursday a small task force numbering about 30 students, of masculine gender, "erupted" to raid the dormitory occupied by other students, of the feminine gender.

As the small unit, aided by exhortations from an otherwise indifferent group of by-standers said to number more than 100, advanced upon the girls dormitory, reinforcements in the persons of Dr. LeRoy Koehler, college president; Dean Ruth Jones, dean of women, and Dean Mildred Wheatley, assistant dean of women sought to block their entrance.

Taunted By Shouts

Besides the shouts of the students on the outside, the force rushing the dormitory were also stung to the quick, as it were, by the taunts of the girls in the dormitory. They redoubled their efforts. This advanced them not.

Just as their whole scheme seemed on the verge of triumph, the hand of Mother Nature intervened and a downpour of rain dampened everyone's enthusiasm for the battle.

Four of the so-called "ring-leaders" were captured, however, and placed upon what Dr. Koehler termed "indeterminate suspension." He did not elaborate upon how long this would be.

Regular Custom

Dr. Koehler said yesterday: "This kind of thing occurs every year just about the time for the West Chester game. It's a custom when the men students fail to act their age — it's kind of a device of growing up."

The East Stroudsburg Police had been called to the scene but their arrival just after 11 p.m. was not needed as the rain contributed the much-needed cooling off to all the hot-heads concerned.

Atomic Exhibition In Area Today

AN EXHIBIT sponsored jointly by the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Atomic Energy Commission was held at the Stroud Shopping Center on Route 611 last night.

The demonstration, shown by the Museum Division of the Institute of Nuclear Studies, shows the peaceful uses and applications of atomic energy.

Among the demonstrations are applications for producing electricity, nuclear power, preserving food without refrigeration, increasing the strength of a substance by radiation, and the treating and tracing of diseases with radioactive elements.

Various pieces of equipment were shown. One piece of equipment was a geiger counter to check, for example, the amount of radioactivity in the dial of a wrist watch.

Today will be the last day of the exhibit, and the final time will be 5:30 p.m. It will be stationed in front of Wyckoff's Department Store. It will be a part of "Sidewalk Days" today.

Yesterday the "Town and Atom" exhibition was at Stroud Union High School and East Stroudsburg High School.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

We are not so fond of sophistication as we like to pretend. The popularity of Sidewalk Days in Stroudsburg proved that. The streets were so crowded with people that progress was difficult.

But nobody minded because, along with the return to sidewalk selling, the people somehow seemed to return to small-town friendliness, too, and there was "visiting" going all up and down the streets.

And they were buying, too. I don't know why things seem to be more of a bargain when you have to rummage for sizes than when they're all neatly hung and classified on racks, but they do.

Anyway the flowers may have wilted along with the women unaccustomed to "tending store" under a summer sun, but the feel and the look of the whole town took you back to pictures of an earlier era when every storekeeper piled his products on the sidewalk of a morning and took them in at night.

However, if the town looked

Roger Smith Returns To Navy Duty

Bartonsville — Roger Smith, of the United States Navy, has returned to sea duty after spending a fifteen day leave here with his wife and children at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bunting, Sr.

On Friday, Mrs. Smith and the children, and Miss Barbara Bunting accompanied Smith to Allentown Airport where he boarded a plane for Mayport, Florida, where he will report for sea duty.

Smith's tour of duty will be completed in August, 1960.

In the dark, I found myself waiting for the sound of a steamship whistle. Certainly tall enough for a couple of ocean liners to be sailing underneath. Maybe theborough fathers ought to preserve the "temporary bridge as an emergency crossing during the ice and snows of winter. We'll never make the new one without a ski tow.

Smith's tour of duty will be completed in August, 1960.

How can you expect to wash 'n' wear garments. Keiper's Laundry and Dry Cleaners have presses which form the garments to look like new. Unless you have the proper equipment it can't be done. Call HA 1-8920 soon.

Money-Saving Suggestions Pay Off For Depot Employees

MONEY-SAVING suggestions at the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna continued to pay dividends yesterday at 12 employees shared a total of $360 in awards. First year savings resulting from the ideas were estimated at $6,534.

Winner of the largest award, $80, was Eugene Warner, of 3713 Laurel Ave., Greenwood. He suggested that a bookkeeping machine in the Comptroller's Office could be modified to handle subsidiary ledger postings being made by hand. This idea, which called for an additional metal bar to be installed by the manufacturer, will save an estimated $2,195 annually.

Raymond Litwin, of Reeder's, won a $60 award for his suggestion to re-machine pump assemblies instead of replacing them in fork lift trucks used to move heavy equipment. There are 55 such trucks at the depot, the pump assemblies of which will last three to four years longer as a result of this suggestion, estimated to save $1,395 yearly.

Another $60 award-winner was Anthony Velella, 119 Reeve St., Dunmore. His idea to utilize the reverse side of mats for reproducing Army shipping documents will save an estimated $1,346 a year.

Victor Malinowski, 1715 Sanderston Ave., Scranton, received a $35 award for suggesting that private shipping agencies provide the depot with blanket instructions covering certain types of overseas shipments, thereby eliminating the need to correspond about each shipment. This idea was estimated to save $675 annually.

Other winners were: Joseph Pisarchick, Throop, two awards totaling $40; Edward Latsko, Plains, $25; George Buchinsky, Carbondale, $15; George Zalepa, Cresco, $10; Stanley Marchak, Dupont, $10; Stanley Walots, Scranton, $10; Thompson Hall, Peckville, $7.50, and John Wallace, Scranton, $7.50.

Inspired Pen Argyl Eleven Trips Stroudsburg, 6-0

INSPIRED by a brilliant goaline stand in the first half and capitalizing on a pass interception in the third quarter, Pen Argyl High sneaked to a 6-0 victory over Stroudsburg at Gordon Giffels Field last night.

A shirt sleeve crowd of 2500 (2149) payees watched the Green Knights' 27 yards in the third stanza after halfback Craig Bellis intercepted a John Martin aerial on the Stroudsburg 27.

DICK GUERRA, Steve Williams and Steve Abbuzzese churned up the yardage for Pen Argyl with Williams bolting over from the one. Sig Quarry's attempted extra point via placement was low. But it little mattered as the 6-0 Knight edge held up the rest of the way.

Stroudsburg, midway in the second period, got its biggest break which set off its deepest penetration of the night when alert Al Edinger recovered Knights quarterback Bill Hewett's fumble on the Pen Argyl 36.

Davey O'Connor, Tom Schatzman and Martin led a yard parade for a first to the 27. Here the Knights stiffened temporarily and Stroudsburg, on a fourth and 13 situation gambled with Warren Loney throwing a screen pass to O'Connor and the Mountaineer fullback raced to a first on the 15.

O'Connor in two buckets hit the six and Schatzman bolted to a first on the one.

Knights Stiffen

But here the Knights rose as Schatzman lost one, and quarterback Loney on a keeper lost to the 4. Again Loney kept and was tossed back to the 11. A fourth down Loney pass to Barry Bond was good only to the eight and Pen Argyl took over possession.

Fumbles marred the contest which was played in 75-degree weather as Stroudsburg bobbed six times and the invaders five.

The Mountaineers, playing without the services of halfback Bill Schoonover, end Gary Reish and tackle Bob Ford couldn't get a sustained attack going throughout the 48 minutes.

Myers Gets Point

Halfback Harold Myers bulletted off tackle for the extra point and the point which enabled the Eastburg to post its second deadlock of the season. The Cavaliers have won one and lost one.

Lehighton, now has a 1-2-1 record.

The Indians took the opening kickoff and drove to the Eastburg six before the Cavaliers threw up a defense to stop the host eleven. Quarterback Jack Semmel and halfback Don Kratzler and Ron Steigerwald led the thwarted Indians move.

Lehighton dominated the play in the first quarter and battled the Cavaliers on fairly even terms in the second as Alygin and Semmel turned the game one-point away from a tie.

Martin, doing the kicking, booted a 48-yarder to put the Green Knights on their one in the first quarter but the Knights wiggled out of the danger zone and Abbuzzese, a pretty fair booter himself, set the Mountaineers back to midfield.

Bobbles hampered the Mountaineers once in the first period when Loney fumbled on Pen Argyl's 27, and O'Connor bobbled on the Mountaineers 31 in the second as the Walt Bjorn-coached eleven attempted to get scoring drives going in the first half.

Outstanding

Bruce Imb, the outstanding lineman on the field, helped Stroudsburg get a short drive moving in the third quarter when he picked up a Hewett fumble and nearly broke away.

A last ditch tackle by Hewett brought down the big Mountaineer linebacker on the Lehighton 22. Here Alygin drove to a first on the 11 but the clock had run out.

Defensively starring for the Cavaliers were Captain-tackle Foster Ladiee, inside guard Schatzman and O'Connor and半back Ron Baylor and Metzger.

But the Mountaineers again were swarmed over by the ever-present Knights defense and were forced to kick.

Lehighton came near getting the winning touchdown in the final four minutes (according to the official's warning) when Alygin and Puzio plunged and romped to a first from the 25. Then Bob Herman, quarterback, threw a 45-yard pass to Harold Myers on the Lehighton 22. Here Alygin drove to a first on the 11 but the clock had run out.

Defensively starring for the Cavaliers were Captain-tackle Foster Ladiee, inside guard Schatzman and O'Connor and halfback Mike Boushell and back-up Joe Steele.

Alygin was by far the best ground gainer for the Cavaliers, picking up 80 yards. Kratzer and Steigerwald shared the offensive role for Lehighton.

A Special Message for Yom Kippur by Rabbi Joshua Sodden of Temple Israel

Yom Kippur, the day of Atonement for members of the Jewish faith, begins at sunset Sunday, Oct. 11, and concludes on Monday, Oct. 12 at nightfall. This day is the climax of the 10 day penitential period which began on Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year. The Biblical directive to observe this day is found in the book of Leviticus, Chapter 16, "For on this day shall atonement be made for you, to cleanse you; from all your sins shall ye be clean before the Lord." On this day the gratification of all bodily desires must be denied. We abstain from eating and drinking and the entire day is devoted to prayer and solemn meditation.

Throughout the ages, our sages have elaborated upon the significance of the fast and upon the meaning of Yom Kippur generally. According to one authority, Moses descended from Mt. Sinai with the second tablets of the Ten Commandments on the 10th day of Tishrei (Oct. 12) and brought the people the good news that the sin of the Golden Calf had been forgiven; therefore this day was ordained as a day of forgiveness for all time to come. This day set aside for penitence and moral regulation is the only one for which Mosaic law prescribes fasting—the most intense form of devotion.

Fasting, however, is only one of the duties we have to fulfill on Yom Kippur. The principal object of this day is a sincere repentance, which implies four steps:

1. The consciousness of having transgressed.
2. The confession of these sins.
3. The sincere regret for the evils done and the good undone.
4. The resolution to forsake the path of the past and to walk upright in the way of God.

Confession of sin is the most essential and characteristic element in the service of the Day of Atonement. Every man begs pardon for his sins and hopes for God's mercy, not because of his own merits but through the compassionate nature of him who will forgive rather than punish. The confession is said by the entire congregation. Those who have not themselves committed the sins mentioned in the confession should feel a sense of guilt for not having exerted themselves sufficiently to prevent them for being committed by others.

Aside from its solemn meaning to us as Jews, Yom Kippur understood from this viewpoint, has meaning for all humanity. On this Atonement Day, entirely devoted to prayer and introspection, there is no class distinction, no aristocracy of wealth, no vested interests, no special privileges. There are only men and women of contrite hearts in whom there breathes a concern for the common welfare. The solemnity of the day is so great, the pious and the indifferent, the charitable and miser, all join together in subjugating their personal wants and desires to the will of a higher morality. Humanity would be blessed if our world household were permeated by this thought. We have attempted to secure our future world-home by means of economic pacts and political alliances. We have, however, overlooked the greatest and mightiest of all alliances—the power of Heaven which elevates society and improves it with a potential goodness. As humanity pursues its quest for security and world peace, this Yom Kippur Day gives us faith and strength to continue our efforts to help mankind to discover the elusive formula through which men will acknowledge the sovereignty of God and the brotherhood of man.

I am a candidate for Associate Judge of the Monroe County Court. Therefore I have applied myself to a study of the duties, responsibilities and possibilities of the office.

I have discussed them with those who are experienced and informed, and with members of the bar, and I have studied the operation of the office in the courtroom, as a juror and as an observer.

I am convinced it is an important post.

An associate Judge is not expected to know or interpret the law. That is the responsibility of the President Judge. The Associate Judge is concerned only with facts. He searches for the truth in the testimony and argument before the court.

He cannot be a lawyer and that is good. Most of those who come into court are laymen too and it is well they have one of their own kind on the bench.

My years, my experience in business (I am a retired manufacturer), my interest in people, qualify me, I believe, to serve well the people of Monroe County as their Associate judge.
